Man charged over Vic officer's bike death

by Callum Godde

23 February 2021

A man has been charged after an off-duty police officer was knocked off his bike and killed in regional Victoria last year.

Leading Senior Constable Dennis Cox was killed on November 12 when a car allegedly struck his bicycle at Sea Lake in Victoria's northwest.

The driver stopped to render assistance but the 42-year-old died at the scene.

A 57-year-old Sea Lake man was charged with culpable driving on Tuesday by major collision investigation detectives.

He was bailed to appear at the Mildura Magistrates Court on May 18.

Mr Cox worked at Sea Lake's one-person local police station for eight years and was described as a "well-respected and admired" community member.

Family's tribute for Leading Senior Constable Dennis Cox killed while cycling at Sea Lake

The heartbroken family of a Victoria Police officer killed while riding his bike have paid tribute to a “wonderful father” with a passion for serving his local community.

Leading Senior Constable Dennis Michael Cox, 47, tragically died when he was hit by a car while cycling on the outskirts of Sea Lake in northwest Victoria on November 12.

Senior Constable Cox’s death has sent shockwaves through the Sea Lake community where he had worked at the one-person station for the past eight years.

The popular and much-loved copper had close ties to the locals, having grown up in the Mallee region on his parents’ farm with his three sisters and two brothers.

He also had extended family in the area and was a champion footballer and past president of the Sea Lake Nandaly Tigers Football Netball Club.

His wife Selina said her husband touched many lives in the community and they were very thankful for the outpouring of support they had received since his death.

“We all loved him very much, he was a great dad. He regularly joked to everyone I was the luckiest woman alive,” she said.

Younger brother Phillip Cox said Constable Cox was an “old fashioned country cop” who was proud of his uniform and what it meant.

Colleague and close friend, Sergeant Brad Fowler, said it was his “dream job” was to work at a single member station, with Sea Lake his number one choice having grown up in the area.

“He policed by earning respect so that his community tried to mostly do the right thing so they didn’t put him in a bad position," Mr Cox said.

"We heard a young man earlier this week refuse a drink as he had to drive home and he wasn't going to let Coxy down.

"He trusted everyone and saw the best in those who made mistakes. He was patient and kind, as well as cheeky. Kids loved him and he was a brother to so many."

Mr Cox said that was probably the reason why he had the least arrests and gave out the fewest fines during one year while based at Swan Hill police station.

He said Constable Cox adored his wife Selina, "the absolute love of his life", and was the proud dad of Shauna, 20, Hannah, 17 and Jacob, 11.

"Shauna and Hannah were his two princesses and Jacob his right hand man," Mr Cox said.

"Second only to Selina and the kids was his love of fishing and camping and (he) shared this with them."

Constable Cox will also be remembered across the community as the legendary footballer who won four senior premierships with Berri-Culgoa, coached Sea Lake Nandaly Tigers and was later president after the two clubs merged.

Lifelong friend and current president of the Sea Lake Nandaly Tigers Football Netball Club, Colin Durie, said Constable Cox and wife Selina were "enormous" for the local club.

"He was a very modest man, he never looked for accolades, he was just happy doing his thing, keeping under the radar and just getting it done," Mr Durie said.

"It's just been a massive shock, it's going to be hard to find someone else like him for our small community that's going to put so much back into it ... it's just going to leave a massive hole.

“When he started policing he wasn’t here and the opportunity came up with the position at Sea Lake and I think he was extremely proud to get back and work in the community he’d grown up in and obviously loved.”

Constable Cox was off duty when he was struck by a car on the Sea Lake-Lascelles Road about 8am on November 12.

He had spent 12 years working with Victoria Police in the Western Division and was also based at Swan Hill police station during his career.

Major Collision Investigation Unit detectives are investigating the crash. The driver of the car stopped at the scene and assisted police. No charges have been laid.

A GoFundMe fundraiser to support Constable Cox’s family has so far raised more than $60,000.

Off-duty policeman Dennis Cox killed in cycling crash in Victoria

A tight-knit Victorian community is mourning the tragic death of its much-loved sole policeman, described by locals as a ‘true copper’.

NCA NewsWire

The sole policeman of a tight-knit Victorian community who was tragically killed while cycling is being remembered as an “all round good bloke” and “true copper”.

Leading Senior Constable Dennis Cox, 47, was riding his bike when he was hit by a car on the outskirts of Sea Lake in northwest Victoria on Thursday morning.

Senior Constable Cox’s death has sent shockwaves through the Sea Lake community where he had worked at the one-person station for the past eight years.

The popular and much-loved police officer had grown up in the Mallee region, had extended family in the area and was a past president of the Sea Lake Nandaly Tigers Football Netball Club.

Local councillor and Sea Lake tourism business operator David Vis told NCA NewsWire “everybody knew” Constable Cox and it would be a great loss for the community.

“He cared a lot about the local community, he was heavily involved in voluntary work as well as with the football club,” he said.

“There’s a lot of things he did over and above his police work, and he will very sadly missed by the community.

“The community hurts when these types of things happen, it’s affected the town quite badly and he’s going to be sorely missed.”

Constable Cox was off duty when he was struck by a car on the Sea Lake-Lascelles Road about 8am on Thursday.

He had spent 12 years working with Victoria Police in the Western Division and was also based at Swan Hill police station during his career.

Local community members have placed ribbons and flowers on the Sea Lake police station fence as a sign of respect to their “much-loved member of the community”.

Former police officer and Sea Lake Men’s Shed secretary Geoff McGuigan said Constable Cox was “an excellent officer and a good man”.

“We were blessed to have you here. RIP. You will be missed,” he posted on Facebook.

Advance Sea Lake Inc community group said Constable Cox was “more than (sic) our ‘local copper’”.

“A community member, family man, all round good bloke,” they posted.

“‘Sea Lake 208, log us off thanks’, that was him, every shift,” another mourner wrote. “We will miss you mate.”

“A true copper and friend of Sea Lake residents,” local Peter Arrowsmith wrote.

Another friend wrote that Constable Cox was “a wonderful ex-neighbour, family friend, such a character, so sadly missed by all”.

“We are just devastated for Dennis’ big beautiful family ... you wouldn’t find a more loving and decent family,” they said.

In a statement, Victoria Police extended its deepest sympathy and condolences to Constable Cox’s immediate and extended family and friends.

“Leading Senior Constable Dennis Cox was a well respected and admired member of the Sea Lake community, working at the community’s one-person station for the past eight years,” they said.

Major Collision Investigation Unit detectives are investigating the crash. The driver of the car stopped at scene and assisted police.

His death comes several months after the Eastern Freeway crash that killed Constable Glen Humphris, Senior Constable Kevin King, Leading Senior Constable Lynette Taylor and Constable Joshua Prestney.

New push for pool

By Stuart Christison

THE Shire of Cardinia is hopeful that an extra $20 million state government boost to build aquatic centres throughout Victoria will see the proposed Pakenham Aquatic Centre given the go-ahead.

In July 1997 council proposed a $6 million indoor aquatic centre be built on the 60-acre site which includes the major recreation reserves.

However, since the proposal, no other attempts have been made to fund the proposed centre. The Shire of Cardinia will only build a new centre if it is primarily funded by the government.

However, the Pakenham Piranhas Swimming Club, which uses the Bicentennial Pool as its base, claims it needs a new pool now or it will run the risk of losing members to other clubs.

"We need a centre now, not in five years," said club spokesman Ken Rich.

"We need concrete plans. Our concern is the time frame."

Mr Rich said the club can only cater for 35 members because of the size of the current indoor pool.

"With only three 20 metre lanes at the current pool, there are limited opportunities for Pakenham swimmers," said Mr Rich.

McMillan MP Christian Zahra has supported calls for a new aquatic centre, saying the current indoor pool is far too small to cater for the rapidly growing community of Pakenham.

"It is generally agreed that the pool is nowhere near big enough for the number of swimmers who want to use it."

Mr Zahra said he was looking forward to working with the Shire of Cardinia to help secure funding.

The Shire of Cardinia recently completed a feasibility study for the whole of the shire. The study's findings will be released next month.

Chief executive officer Don Welsh said there was certainly a need for a new centre. He said the outdoor pool, which opens between October and March, leaks.

Mr Welsh said the proposed centre would have to be considered in terms of regional initiatives, taking into consideration the Basin Centre in Dandenong and the proposed aquatic centre at Narre Warren.

Mr Welsh said he expected council to finalise its priority list in June, after the release of the pool feasibility report and council's consideration.

"There is still a case for an indoor aquatic centre in Pakenham and the council will be putting a funding package together," said Mr Welsh.

Mr Zahra said sporting facilities in regional towns are important focal points because they provide a place where local people can meet.

This is particularly important in a town such as Pakenham which is growing so rapidly.

Many young families are moving into the town and the existing pool facility is already unable to cope with the growing demand.

"Our challenge is to stay ahead of the growth in our community," said Mr Zahra.

Pakenham Piranhas Swimming Club spokesman Ken Rich believes residents need a new aquatic centre now, not in five years.

‘His kids were his world’: Family of veteran police officer Ken Rich killed in bike crash share grief

• Timna Jacks, Melissa Cunningham

A heartbroken relative of an off-duty police officer who was hit by a ute while cycling with his daughter in Melbourne's south-east on Good Friday says his family were "his world" and he was on the cusp of retiring when he was killed.

The pair was riding east on the Princes Highway, near Dore

Road, at Pakenham when the officer, Sergeant Ken Rich, was hit by a Toyota Hilux ute about 8.50am.

Sergeant Rich's daughter cared for him at the scene until an ambulance arrived.

Paramedics worked on him for about an hour, but he died at the scene.

His devastated cousin Sue Dickson said the father-of-five loved nothing more than spending time with his wife Kerry and their adult children Samantha, Charlene, Jacinta, Crystal and Brandon.

"His kids were his world," Ms Dickson said.

"He was involved in all their activities as they were growing up and coached many kids in the Pakenham area."

"He was a real family man and loved being at home with his wife and kids."

Sergeant Ken Rich pictured celebrating his birthday with his cousin and close friend Sue Dickson. Photo: Supplied

Ms Dickson said she'd grown up with Sergeant Rich and the pair remained close, sharing every birthday together.

"We were born two days apart," she said.

"Our mothers are identical twins so we grew up together (and we) saw each other almost every day."

Ms Dickson said the devoted father and police officer had confided in her recently about the increasing pressures of his work and his desire to retire soon.

"The last few real conversations I had with him made me realise how much the police force got him down," she said.

"He hated the youth suicide problem and the fact that many young people were not growing up in a loving family environment any more."

By others that knew him, Sergeant Rich was remembered as a "real personality" and a highly regarded law enforcement officer .

"He was out enjoying Good Friday with his family as most people are across the country," Assistant Commissioner Robert Hill said.

Sergeant Rich, had only taken up cycling in recent years.

"The family is heartbroken. They are dealing with the loss of a husband and a father," Mr Hill said.

The officer had been in the force since 1980 and worked at the Narre Warren police station for 25 years.

Sergeant Rich was in "the twilight of his policing career" and "looking forward to retirement, looking forward to spending time with his wife and children ... looking forward to travel and all of those things on our bucket list when we come to the end of our careers," Mr Hill said.

His colleagues were devastated at the tragic news.

"They have lost one of their members, one of their leaders, their friend," Mr Hill said.

"He was certainly well respected and well regarded ... a member that was full of life, affable, a real personality around our police station."

"Road trauma; it doesn't discriminate."

Sergeant Rich's friends and acquaintances have left tributes on social media for him.

"A good man lost his life today," Simon Yeo said.

"Ken was swimming coach to our boys and President of the Cardinia Piranhas Swim Club. RIP."

Mandy Yeo wrote: "RIP Ken our thoughts with you and your family."

Angie King described him as a "wonderful man, brave, kind".

“Rest in peace, Ken Rich,” she said.

“Thank you.”

The officer and his daughter were cycling east, on the shoulder of the highway in a 100km/h zone.

The ute was also travelling east when it struck the officer, police said.

It has been reported the ute was trying to overtake the cyclists, when the side mirror of the vehicle hit Sergeant Rich.

The driver of the ute, a 58-year-old man from Pakenham, was not injured. He stayed at the scene and was assisting police with their inquiries.

Major collision investigation unit detectives are working to determine the cause of the crash.

Secretary of the Victorian Police Association, Sergeant Wayne Gatt sent his condolences to the officer’s family.

“Earlier today, we learnt that one of our members was tragically killed in a road accident,” he said.

“For the member’s family, friends and close policing colleagues, the Easter period will now always be tinged with sadness. Our prayers and condolences are with them all, at this very difficult time.”

Anyone who witnessed the crash or has any information is urged to contact Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000.
