AFP officer workplace suicides: Headquarters scene of second tragic death

A SECOND workplace suicide has rocked the Australian Federal Police after another member died at the Melbourne Headquarters.

AN AUSTRALIAN Federal Police officer who is believed to have taken his own life inside the Melbourne Headquarters over the weekend was the second to do so in the building this year.

It was the latest in a string of apparent workplace suicides that have rocked the embattled organisation.

News.com.au understands that AFP member Malcolm Scott, 59, walked into the foyer of the building and died by suicide just before 9am on Saturday.

AFP Commissioner Andrew Colvin said it was “with great sadness I can confirm one of our police officers has died in Melbourne ... as a result of a gunshot wound”.

“The male officer was found by colleagues in the AFP’s Melbourne Headquarters in La Trobe Street,” Mr Colvin said.

Mr Scott’s death followed that of colleague Sue Jones, 53, who died by a gunshot in shockingly similar circumstances in the same building earlier this year. Mr Scott and Ms Jones had worked on the same team within the Melbourne branch, according to colleagues who spoke to news.com.au. Both deaths were believed to be non-suspicious.

Independent police advocacy and support group Blue Hope spokesman Mark Kelly said: "It's tragic and does point to problems in the AFP.

"We've been contacted by a lot of members who have been struggling with PTSD."

Mr Kelly said he was concerned officers might be trying to send a message by taking their lives in the workplace.

The circumstances in the lead up to Mr Scott's or Ms Jones' deaths are not yet publicly known. But the tragic incidents have highlighted an increasingly fragile workforce in an organisation that has now seen two members go to work and die there in within nine months of each other.

According to AFP whistleblowers, the deaths are symptomatic of a stressed workforce that has been overexposed to a toxic – and dangerous – culture.

Ms Jones' death prompted close to 100 current and former AFP agents to contact news.com.au about the organisation's extreme bullying culture and its mismanagement of the issue.

Many of those who came forward said they or their loved ones had contemplated or attempted suicide because of poor treatment at the hands of the organisation and a lack of internal support.

“It's like looking at a whole lot of ticking time bombs and wondering which one will go off,” one AFP source told news.com.au in February this year.

It was a prediction those who spoke out publicly believed would come to fruition.

There are now grave concerns from within the AFP community that some struggling members with access to firearms may not only be a risk to themselves, but also to others.

MORE: AFP agents' harrowing stories

Several AFP officers who contacted news.com.au said "things have only become worse" in recent times.

"Anytime another story comes out it turns the spotlight on AFP and then the sharks come out," one source said.

"The AFP only cares about managing their image, it's toxic.

"There needs to be an inquiry."

An AFP spokesman on Tuesday said members of the organisation "were shocked and saddened following the incident on Saturday – with our deepest sympathies extended to the officer's family and colleagues".

"The AFP recognises that policing is in inherently difficult job that can place the mental and physical health of members at risk," the statement read.

"This is why the AFP has a range of systems and protocols in place that recognise the seriousness of mental illness, and to provide necessary support to affected members."

Mr Scott had served in the AFP's International Deployment Group (IDG) in East Timor and Papua New Guinea before returning to Melbourne.

Prior to that Mr Scott served as a member in Victoria Police. He was also a popular footballer who had played 10 games and kicked 26 goals for St Kilda in 1979-1980 and later played one game for Sydney. He was a country footballer with the Sebastopol, North Ballarat and Bacchus Marsh clubs.

Bacchus Marsh Club president Adam Sutherland described Mr Scott as a “special member of the Cobra family being a player, Captain, Coach, Mentor, Leading Goal Kicker, and member of the Team of the Era”.

“He is also a BFL Hall of Fame member, and decorated North Ballarat and Sebastopol player and member. Malcolm was also a very community-minded person, performing many community roles over many years, most recently of course as a member of the Australian Federal Police to do his bit to help make and keep our country safe,” Mr Sutherland said.

“All who knew Malcolm will never forget him.”

MORE: AFP Commissioner's vow

One of many tributes to Mr Scott that poured in on social media described him as "a great guy who touched the lives of thousands".

"A respected veteran police officer and admired AFL coach, he quietly commanded respect, and his deeds and mannerisms made him stand out as a true gentleman," it read.

"His memory will live on in the hearts and minds of all those who had the privilege to meet him.

"Our sincere condolences to the family, friends and colleagues of this great officer, footballer and humanitarian."

Victoria Police is preparing a report in relation to Mr Scott's death for the state coroner.

"The AFP will closely consider the circumstances surrounding this recent incident as well as any recommendations from the coroner to determine if any further support or operational changes are required," a statement from the AFP read.

One police welfare advocacy group spokesman told news.com.au: "The most important thing is that AFP should constantly be under a strong spotlight, we must never lose interest, assume that things got better, or fall for the plane-pulling stunts."

GONE TOO SOON: Malcolm Scott was also a much-respected and long-serving police officer.

Ballarat's football fraternity has vowed to rally behind the family of Ballarat Football Netball League Hall of Fame member, Malcolm Scott.

Scott, who had an illustrious playing and coaching career with Sebastopol and Bacchus Marsh clubs in the BFNL, died suddenly at the weekend.

Bacchus Marsh club president Adam Sutherland confirmed Scott's passing to The Courier on Saturday evening.

Sutherland also posted on the Cobras' Facebook page, informing their members of his death.

"Malcolm you have gone too soon but will live on in the hearts and memory of the Cobra family," part of the post read.

The former St Kilda and Sydney player was a well known figure in the region's football circles for his decorated career in the BFNL. He was also a long time member of the police force.

Scott coached the Sebastopol Football Club in 1983-85 and again in 1999-2001 and the club's football department member Chris Parker told The Courier on Sunday the Scott family would be well supported by the entire football fraternity.

"Prue (Scott's daughter) plays a big part in the Sebastopol FNC's netball side and the club will rally around her, her mother and brother as much as we can," Parker said.

Parker, who played at the Sebastopol club under the guidance of Scott as coach, described him as a great mentor.

"Malcolm led by example. He was a terrific player and coached a young side ... he was an excellent mentor to the lot of us. He was a big influence on the young guys and was well-respected at the same time," Parker said.

Parker also described Scott as eccentric. "He would often say or do something that you were not expecting."

Scott was also modest about his football achievements. While researching Scott's career before his induction into the BFNL Hall of Fame, Parker asked the Sebastopol coach about his AFL playing career, which included 11 games with St Kilda.

“That’s not worth mentioning,” was Scott’s reply.

Parker said while Scott’s formal involvement with the Sebastopol FNC finished several years ago, he still liked to watch matches throughout a season.

“He will be sadly missed around the club,” Parker said.

Scott’s football achievements included:

- North Ballarat FC junior player, played over 100 junior games with premierships in all grades
- North Ballarat FC senior player, played over 100 senior games
- North Ballarat FC premiership player (1978,79,82)
- Sebastopol FC senior player, played over 50 games

- Sebastopol FC coach (1983-85, 1999-2001), runners-up (1985 & 2000)
- Sebastopol FC life member (2002)
- Bacchus Marsh FC senior player, played over 100 games
- Bacchus Marsh FC Team of the Era member (2016)
- Bacchus Marsh FC leading goal-kicker five times
- Coached junior football teams at Bacchus Marsh and Sebastopol
- Coached senior football teams at Ballan and Learmonth
- Premiership player with the Avoca FC (1996). Also won league goal-kicking award
- Tony Lockett Medalist for most goals kicked in a BFL season (1987, 1990)

- Played 20 matches with the Ballarat FL senior interleague side. Member of the division 1 championship teams (1981-83)
 - Represented the VCFL at the state championships (1984)
- Ballarat FL interleague coach of VCFL Country Championship Division 2 winning side (2001)
- Picked in the best team ever for the Sebastopol FC, Bacchus Marsh FC and North Ballarat FC

I would like to diverge a little from the subject of police history to acknowledge a member who passed away in service yesterday.

Leading Senior Constable Gary Miller, 30326, current Highway patrolman was an exceptional member and friend to many. Committed to making the roads safer, Gary was in all respects the quiet achiever.

I say this with good authority having worked with Gary back in the day.

I acknowledge your service and dedication.

dedicated Wangaratta police

'lovable idiot'

Gavin Frew

- Shana Morgan

The death of Leading Senior Constable Gavin Frew has devastated his family and Wangaratta police colleagues who always found joy in his unique ways.

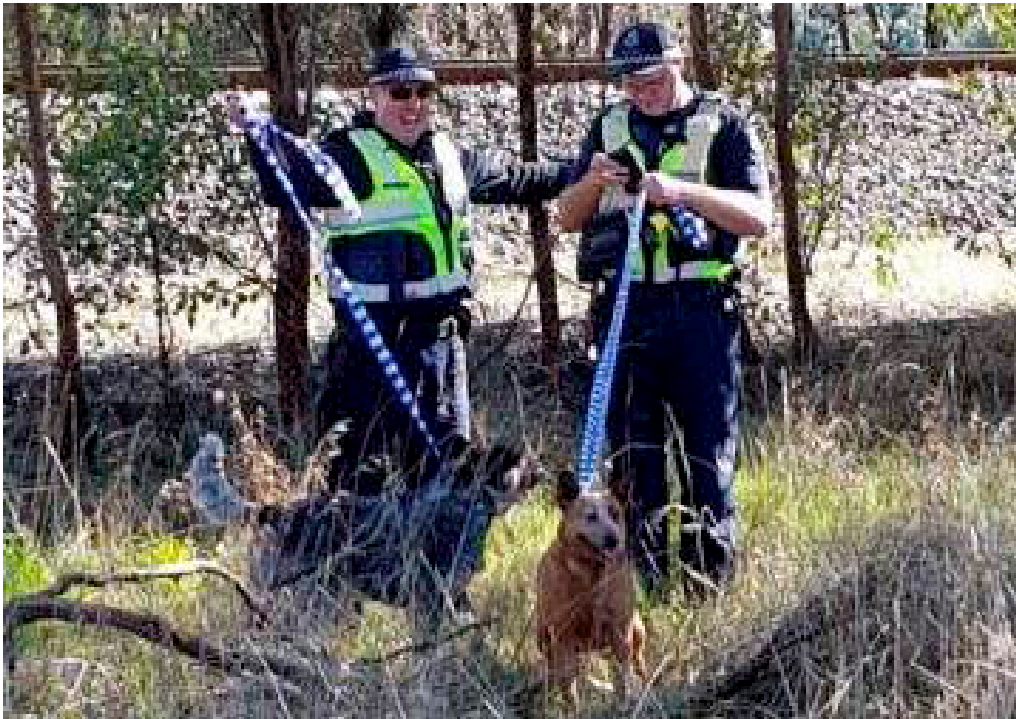

He had been stationed with the Wangaratta Highway Patrol in recent years after moving to the region from Horsham, but died this week.

Daughter Kaycee Frew said her father was her best friend.

“He was a loving husband, an amazing father and a lovable idiot to all,” she said.

“His many years of service in the Victoria police brought joy to the people who worked with him – the hole left in our lives is deep and painful.”

Leading Senior Constable Frew was known for his dedication to the job and sense of humour, but also suffered from post-traumatic stress disorder.

Ms Frew described him as her “sad clown” and wanted to make him the face of the disorder within Victoria Police. His death comes as Police Remembrance Day will be commemorated on September 29.

Superintendent Paul O’Halloran said messages of sympathy for the loss of Leading Senior Constable Frew had come from the Border region and from Horsham.

“He was always quite vocal around the building ... it’s had a really significant impact,” he said.

“We’re shocked and saddened. Gavin was a well-liked and very well-respected member of the Wangaratta Highway Patrol and he’s also really well known across the force.”

Horsham-based friend Michael Ryan said Leading Senior Constable Frew was loved by all.

“He was a gorgeous young man. It was very hard to not like him, even as a copper. He was just good to people,” he said.

“There was nothing about him that was evil or mean.”

Mr Ryan knew Mr Frew through their mutual involvement with Horsham Saints Football Netball Club.

said.

“He was really good policeman. It takes a bit of skill and nous to be good at the job and still be at peace with your community, but he was both. We could do with a lot more people like him.”

A service for Leading Senior Constable Frew will be held in Wangaratta next week.

If you or anyone you know needs help, support is available by calling Lifeline on 13 11 14.

Gavin Frew

- Shana Morgan

The emotional, and at times funny, funeral for Leading Senior Constable Gavin Frew was a fitting tribute to the well-loved Wangaratta police officer.

His colleagues lined White Street after the service on Thursday in a guard of honour, saluting his casket and family members as a final mark of respect.

Leading Senior Constable Frew's death came as a shock to those around him, and wife Bec Frew thanked the hundreds of people at the funeral for their support to keep her strong.

"If everybody just took on that little bit of love and happiness, and shared it with everyone around them, what a wonderful world it would be," she said

"You were my other half, my soulmate, my anchor in so many storms ... You made our world a better place, you will be forever in our hearts.”

He was remembered as a proud father, Larrikin big brother, devoted friend and although he was constantly making those around him laugh on and off the job, he was the ultimate professional as a police officer.

A police procession ends what has been a lovely funeral service for Wangaratta LSC Gavin Frew today.

@bordermailpic.twitter.com/uljCtorEol

– Shana Morgan (@shana_morgan) October 5, 2017

Daughter Kaycee Frew said the day was a chance to “celebrate the life of a very loved idiot”.

Kaycee Frew September 24, 2017
· It hurts my soul to inform you all that my best mate Gavin has left us too soon. I will miss you forever. Thanks for helping to make me the amazing person I am today. Miss you so much already Dad. Rest easy my Gangster. ♥☐

“My dad had the amazing ability to make people laugh in any circumstance, especially under serious ones. His cheeky smile and quirky personality is what we’ll all miss the most,” she said.

Leading Senior Constable Frew graduated the police academy in 1989, passing the final fitness test despite a broken collarbone he suffered while trying to do a stand-up somersault after winning a football final.

He served in Broadmeadows, Ararat and Horsham, before moving to Wangaratta in 2012.

Most of the speakers at the funeral recounted Leading Senior Constable Frew's favourite piece of trivia he would constantly ask family, friends, colleagues and even people he pulled over on the road: when was the Battle of Hastings?

Wangaratta Highway Patrol Sergeant Michael Connors confirmed the legend that the officer was always looking for a motorist who knew the right answer, 1066. "If they got that correct, there was a chance of them getting a warning," he said.

Leading Senior Constable Frew's call sign "Wangaratta 610" has been retired as a mark of respect.

Thursday's service was also attended by Acting Chief Commissioner Andrew Crisp and Acting Assistant Commissioner Clive Rust.

Donations to the Starlight Children's Foundation were being collected by the family in lieu of flowers.

Police 'macho culture' needs to change

Leading Senior Constable Gavin Frew was a man of extraordinary light and good humour, but he was also one of many police officers who suffered post-traumatic stress disorder.

His family now want to raise awareness of the condition.

Long-time friend Anthony Hoffmann told Thursday's service about the many good times he had with Leading Senior Constable Frew, but said things had to change when it came to dealing with PTSD.

"Over the years we'd always get together and trade some war stories – some funny, some not so funny – but we'd never talk about how these moments affected us, I guess mainly because silently we did not want to appear weak," he said.

"This is wrong and we need to change this attitude.

"If there's one thing we can and should take away from this tragedy, it's that we need to change this macho culture and to learn to talk and to ask for help when we need it, otherwise we'll needlessly lose more sons, daughters, husbands, wives, fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters – enough is enough.

"I implore you to take this message away today: life is precious and our time here short, so we owe it to our loved ones to be the best we can, but we can't do that alone so it's time to man up and be honest with those around you.

“Don't wait to be asked, just please ask for help if you need it.”

Mr Hoffmann said his friend was a very courageous man, looking out for team mates on the football field and in other parts of life.

“He never took a backwards step, even when the odds were stacked against him,” he said.

If you or anyone you know needs help, support is available by calling Lifeline on 13 11 14.

Mum, we saw you off yesterday and I am sure you would have been pleased with the service. The pain, I feel will take a long time to subside. I miss you so much and I think about the things I could have done to make your life somewhat easier. We are all too busy these days to look after our loved ones. It is too late now and I live with regrets. I was so proud to have you as my mother and I will see you in Heaven.

Rest in Peace Mum.

I will love you forever.

In Gods care.

My Stevie Wonder,

It comes with heartfelt sadness to hear of you passing. We knew each other for 42 years many laughs, many oysters & prawns & lots of blood sweat & tears but that was our glue.

I miss your voice & naughtiness.

Happy Fishing Mate, get me a black fish. Will take the good of you with me in this world.

Cronulla riot probe highlights cop failures

October 25, 2006 – 2:50PM

A report into the strike force that investigated Sydney's Cronulla riot and reprisal attacks has highlighted a breakdown in communications among the police involved.

The 33-page report, compiled by former senior officers Ron Sorrenson and Tony Jeffries, was released today by NSW police.

It looks at the management of Strike Force Enoggera, established to investigate the December 11 riot and subsequent retaliatory attacks.

It investigated why Police Commissioner Ken Moroney was not told of the existence of video footage of a man being bashed by a gang of Middle Eastern youths on the night following the riot.

Following the reported oversight, Mr Moroney removed Acting Superintendent Dennis Bray as the head of the strike force.

He was later reinstated under Supt Ken McKay after detectives threatened industrial action.

The report said the “unintentional omission” to advise the commissioner of the video was the most significant breakdown in communications.

“Whilst this omission was not as a result of the actions of any one person or an attempt to deliberately mislead the commissioner, it highlighted a deficiency in the system,” the report said.

Mr Moroney, in a statement accompanying the report, said all its nine recommendations were accepted.

He said a “business case” will be made to the NSW government relating to the capturing and cataloguing of photographic images.

However, he noted the methodology adopted by Strike Force Enoggera was successful, leading to the arrest and charging of 103 offenders – 51 in relation to the riot and 52 for the revenge attacks.

“Strike Force Enoggera was successful in that regard, however we will investigate what technologies are available to enhance our capacity to collate and process large volumes of visual data,” he said.

Mr Moroney also today released a report into a complaint alleging NSW police failed to respond to an assault on Mr Jasen (Jasen) Greeks during Sydney’s Macquarie Field riot.

The police investigation was oversighted by the ombudsman’s office.

Mr Moroney said an apology was sent to Mr Greeks in early September.

Ombudsman Bruce Barbour today said the original internal police investigation into the Greeks matter had been deficient and had “not covered areas that should have been covered”.

“Finally when they (police) went back and looked at the matter again at our urging, they ultimately agreed with our view about the matters,” Mr Barbour told reporters.

Flash Flanagan was a rough and ready Policeman who worked at Fairfield and Liverpool Police, on General Duties, before his Resignation in February 1982.
Flash was diagnosed with Liver & Kidney cancer one month prior to his passing. The Cancer was aggressive and quick. He was in palliative care when he passed. Lenny was a real 'old school' cop, who never took a backward step from anyone. After Resigning, he took on a pub in Port Douglas, Qld, for a few years after which he was selling real estate at Mossman, Qld, up to at least two years prior to his death.

He was a colourful guy who loved boxing and was very popular with all the new blokes arriving at # 2 Division (Regent St).
